UDL offers an instructional planning and delivery framework for meeting the needs of an increasingly diverse student population. UDL proactively increases meaningful access and reduces barriers to learning for our wide range of learners.

This training is perfect for all educators who want to see how the research translates into a challenging and unforgettable experience for all learners.

Outcomes

As a result of the learning experiences in the training, participants will:

- understand the fundamental concepts of UDL, how it differs from differentiated instruction, and how it aligns to the California MTSS model for instruction.
- design, deliver, and assess UDL lessons, aligned to curriculum frameworks, to engage all students in the learning process regardless of ability and barriers.
- appreciate the relevance of UDL and its capacity to create better learning opportunities and outcomes for students.

Target Audience: K-8 General Education teachers, Coaches, TOSAs, Administrators and Special Educators

Date: Thurs, November 29, 2018

Location: SBCEO Auditorium

Time: 8:30 a.m. - 3 p.m.

Cost: $195 (includes breakfast and lunch and UDL Now! book)